

DEMOCRATS IN ROW OVER PROHIBITION

NEW DETAILS IN LINDY CASE TOLD AT TRIAL

Lindbergh's Attempt To Swim
In Supposed Kidnappers' Boat Bared

CURTIS OFFER DESCRIBED

Newspaperman Reveals Hoaxer's Effort To Sell Story of Negotiations

The Associated Press
LAUSANNE, SWITZERLAND June 29—Frank Van Papen German chancellor said before the powers at the war debts and reparations conference today a demand for revision of the Versailles treaty, as a necessary preliminary for German participation in the economic reconstruction of the world.

In a statement to the press Chancellor Von Papen demanded that all discrimination against Germany be revised out of the treaty. His statement was a reply to a question proposed by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain yesterday asking what concessions Germany was ready to make in order to facilitate a definite settlement of the reparations problem.

World confidence cannot be re-established, the chancellor said, if the powers which emerged victorious from the war do not decide to eliminate the discrimination created by the treaty of Versailles.

He said the negotiations cannot be established getting closer," Haskell replied. "He said they had to take Col. Lindbergh from upboard to swim to the boat.

Col. Lindbergh was told of Curtis offer to swim to the boat and asked him if he believed his kidnapers would let him go. Col. Lindbergh said he believed his kidnapers would let him go.

Col. Lindbergh was asked if he believed his kidnapers would let him go. Col. Lindbergh said he believed his kidnapers would let him go.

"All her no matter what she said in the next few days I am all right," Haskell quoted him as saying.

Under cross examination by Col. Lindbergh's chief defense counsel Haskell said he had visited Curtis' jail after he had confessed that the negotiations were a hoax.

Col. Lindbergh was informed that he had been in touch with the actual kidnappers.

He most indignantly said yes, he was still to be told it's a lie.

Haskell said Curtis told him he had confessed that all his stories with the kidnappers were a hoax in order to get some money.

Doubts Confirmed

Curtis has since repudiated his confession and even the prosecutor is disregarding it, attempting to prove instead that Curtis really was in touch with the kidnappers.

Haskell was executed Frank W. on of Baltimore, a special agent of the revenue department.

He testified that at the time he was in Hopewell on

Pirates Furnish "Our Boys" Some Pointers on Baseball PRESBIES TRIP LUTHERANS 6-0 TO HOLD NO. 1 LEAGUE LEAD

LEE STREET CLINGS TO RUNNER-UP POST;
ST. MARY IN THIRD

Second Placers Beat Clark men 2-0, Irish Trip Calvary, 3-2, Bishop's Lose

For the first time since the start of the campaign to stay and a deadlock exists in the three top positions of the No. 1 Marion school softball circuit. The first Presbyterian are leaders in first Lee Street, second, and St. Mary in third. The only tie exists in fourth place where Trinity Baptist and the Epworth Bishops are tied at five wins and three losses.

The Presbies held their margin half game advantage yesterday by taking a 6-0 victory from the Irby Lutherans. Lee Street took over second place by beating John Clark's Epworth No. 1 team 2-0. St. Mary assumed command of third by squeezing out a 3-2 decision over Calvary in a 12 inning frame. Epworth Bishop's skidded into a tie for fourth by dropping a tilt to the Baptists by a 4-2 count.

Lee Street Top

The league-leading Presbites had little difficulty in subduing the Lutherans although it took some time to get started on their victory march. The just pioneers held them in check until the third inning but while the whiners collected nine off the Lutheran twirler Johnson.

For the second time this season
Lee Street beat Epworth No. 1 by a 20 score. Both teams scored five safe hits but Epworth could not put them together for as much as a single tally. A Methodist crew paved the way for the first Lee an earned ball.

Calvary continued its quest for a winning mound artist yesterday converting Flash Baldwin out while shortstopper into a twirler.
Baldwin did quite well thank you in his first appearance of the season despite the fact he lost the game 3-2 to the Irish. He gave up two hits but kept them well spaced

STOCK MARKET AS DULL DAY

Move in Irregular Higher Trend on Big Board.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, June 29.—The stock market had a rather spindly day, but with prices bumping up and down, shorts were taken and enough covering was done to list an irregularly shaped market.

It was an extremely harrowing day for the most part, and a temporary setback continued. Westinghouse's decline was the chief responsibility of decline in Washington, Chicago and Cincinnati, the short market.

It was formed in the first hour, but temporarily on the West Coast, and again after midday, and again after midafternoon or more appeared in New York. Consolidated Gas, New York Central, Santa Fe, the American Car, Air Reduction, the American Telephone, Standard Oil, J. & McEntyre Purchased functionally. Westinghouse more than point to low Wright, National Biscuit, South Puerto Rican, and Hershey lost as did Procter & Gamble, one of the stars of the preferred market. John Wanamaker and Leon Radcliffe breaking 6 in the market.

Market news was again an important factor. Westinghouse's 25-cent quarterly had been shadowed in the sharp dip earlier in the week. Wright had four consecutive 25-cent dividends. Previously it had been paying 50-cents in cash, bringing the annual sum up to $1.

Wright's Purchasing provided the evidence of the tendency for mining to thrive in hard cash by increasing its annual rate 10% from $1.

DR. SAWYER SPEAKS AT ROTARY MEETING

Traces Geological History of Ohio from Early Glacial Period

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer gave a comprehensive talk on the history of Ohio at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club at the Hotel Harding yesterday. Former members who were guests of the club at the luncheon included James H. Mason of Canton former president of the club and former superintendent of the city schools.

A geological history of the state from the glacier period when a gigantic mass of ice formed over much of this area to the present time was traced by Dr. Sawyer in his talk. He explained how the ice stopped by the high hills and mountains of eastern Ohio and Pennsylvania melted forming the series of high ridges examples of which may be seen between Piqua and Radnor.

He also gave a brief history of the mound builders and traced the part the rustic played in the Civil War and World War and reviewed briefly the history of the eight presidents produced by the state.

Two Rounds for Roosevelt
Wonderful Flying
He Will Kill Himself
Senator Reed's Plank

By ASTOR BRAIDBARE

CHICAGO June 29.—A few minutes before 8 last night the crowd streamed from the big stadium. It had shouted and yelled, watched a few almost fights had been Governor P. Roosevelt win his first two rounds—the Euclid delegation contest and the naming of Walsh of Montana for permanent chairman. Then he went home to eat, talk, perhaps to think.

MORE IMPORTANT than any nomination was the exhibition by army fliers on Chicago lake front last night.

We have good times and bad times. Good times come from the generosity of Providence, bad times from our own stupidity and weakness.

All that we possess depends on our ability to defend ourselves from attack in the air.

You would believe it if you had seen those huge army bombing planes roaring in close formation over Chicago's skyscrapers in the dim twilight.

While Chicago crowds looked on admiring the same crowd would have witnessed the complete destruction of its eight and of a million lives by poison gas and bombs in the same length of time had they been enemy planes.

BY THE MORNING there had been preliminary flying planes zooming low hundreds of planes on the lake front, fluttering wildly in all directions, filled with fear at the approach of these super hawks. The night display was most amazingly beautiful and daring. The great planes flew so close together, their wings seemed to touch. They took strange shapes like a great red Macedonian wedge, a long, drawn-out monstrosity roiling made of many units each keeping its place.

And the laying of a smoke screen by one single plane, a screen high and wide enough to hide whole air fleets or a fleet of battleships showed how hopeless attack from the ground must be with swift planes above. In moments war, land armies and floating vessels would find squadrons of planes to hide and protect them.

STUPIFYING to spectators was the performance of James Peary, representative of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. left Thursday for the west coast, and will spend a few weeks at Los Angeles, San Diego and the Hoover Dam.

Ruth Johnson has returned to her home in Akron after spending several weeks here.

Charles Burson and Stanley Burton across the Ohio or Atlantic thinking it might be a good idea to attack this country. It should first send observers to study the plans of our enemies and then...

We declare that there should be a strict adherence to the policy announced by George Washington namely that we should keep free from entanglement with the diplomats of foreign powers.

We further declare that there should be no cancellation of the independence due us by foreign governments.

Ninety per cent of Americans old enough to vote and intelligent enough to think for themselves would vote for that plank. But platforms are not built for ninety per cent but for ten per cent of the population where foreign debts and foreign nonsense are concerned.

WOMEN are in the news every where determined to count apart from mere production of babies.

That production is their most important work nothing else really counts except creating a better race.

However they must decide. One English woman, Lady Catherine Carnegie, crossed the English Channel yesterday on a surf boat drawn by a power boat in 85 minutes. Miss Lily Coplestone of New Zealand crossed in the opposite direction in 63 minutes.

Devoted women here hand out tickets asking you to sit k to protection and you say with John these names simpletons.

them for right play. The game first popular aboard ships and later vacation resorts is interesting to both adults and children, and entails an appreciable amount of exercise.

The game is played by sliding large wooden discs across a flat surface with a pole about six feet long the object being to stop the discs on an oblong or triangle cutting design painted on the driveway. The players give the discs a sharp thrust with the poles skidding the discs along the drive way.

A state secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and neighbor of Mr. Seair copied the shuffle board design and set up courts in the Y. M. C. A. which have been popular several months.

More Old Coins

RECENT publicity given penance of the early nineteenth century vintage has thrown down a challenge to owners of old coins who have brought out of hiding several of this denomination.

So for the honors for the oldest penny belonged to Delmas Jenkins of Bradford street who boasts of a coin bearing the date of 1810. The coin is one of a collection owned by Mr. Jenkins.

John Emery of 217 East Church street is the owner of a copper dated 1815. The penny was found by his brother a number of years ago on a farm near Waldo.

Mrs. T. W. Taylor of 245 South Sellier avenue and Henry Hartman of Morral own coins bearing the date of 1820. Mrs. Taylor has owned the coins for more than a quarter of a century. The coin was found under an old log house which was being razed. She also has a penny dated 1857. Mr. Hartman has owned his coin for more than 20 years.

Mrs. E. J. Duwe of Reed avenue and Mrs. E. P. Mills of East Market street each own a coin bearing the date of 1831. Mrs. Duwe's father found her coin while plowing in a field in Salt Rock township 25 years ago and Mrs. Mills' husband picked up the coin owned by her at Cardington about 20 years ago.

Other coins which can trace their markings back to more than a century are reported by Mrs. O. Fehl of Route 6 Upper Sandusky. Included in her assortment are two large coppers bearing the dates 1824 and 1828. Another bears the date of 1832. A reproduction of the head of King George graces one side of a large copper owned by Mrs. Fehl. And the other side bears the figure of a woman. The coin is dated 1812.

Other coins in the collection are a small five cent silver piece dated 1892, small portions of 1867, a silver five cent piece dated 1829 and several other old coins some dated 1799.

New Use for Hay YOU can't feed hay to an automobile but hay can be put to a very practical use around an auto one Marion county farmer discovered.

When the hood of his automobile developed a healthy rattle the farmer stuffed a handful of new hay between the vibrating part of the hood and the body effectively stopping the noise.

Handfuls of hay also were protruding from other points of the automobile where rattles had been detected with the result that the farmer now can ride without listening to a discordant symphony of rattles.

Topic of Day ANONE who thinks politics isn't the topic of the day while a national convention is in progress easily could prove himself wrong by walking through downtown Marion this week.

Nor is it necessary to sit down beside a radio to keep in touch with the convention.

With radios it virtually every business place tuned in on Chicago.

Many Rare Articles Included in Gifts Given President Harding

More Than 4,000 Articles on Display at Museum in Home of Former Executive.

This is the second of a series of articles about the Harding home and museum and the contents of the museum being published by the Star.

Many gifts of real worth others valuable because the giver was a famous or well known person and others of rich historical value are among the 4,000 pieces in the Harding museum at 180 Mt. Vernon ave. Fred Donoughue custodian points out to the visitors many curiosities.

One of the most talked about gifts on display is a small lock of hair taken from the head of President Lincoln the day he was assassinated. This is contained in a gold locket also holding a Lincoln picture. It was presented to Mr. Harding on Christmas day 1921 as the exemplar of Lincoln's spirit and the exponent of his democracy by Dr. John Westcott Hill, chancellor of the Lincol Memorial university and a close friend of President Harding.

Cards of Speech

Another remarkable gift this one presented to the Harding Memorial association is a hand written copy of the speech that President Harding was said to have delivered at the Malo Bros.

Naturalist at Hollywood on the day of his death. The writing is so shaded that the hair and shoulders of President Harding are clearly outlined if the observer attends a few feet from the manuscript. This manuscript is framed and hangs on the wall of the museum.

An unique Mohammedan prayer rug brought to the President from Afghanistan by Princess Fatima of Afghanistan on a visit to the White House in 1922 is another treasured gift on display. This rug approximately four by five feet took several years to make each of the many thousands of knots being tied by hand.

The native of the Samoan Islands made a large 1000 shapes from topsoil material made by boiling bark until water was a gift for the President. A beautiful design was made on the well piece in vegetable dye.

Keynote Promises

Senator Allen W. Barkley whose keynote speech thundered through the amphitheater and echoed among the galleries in Chicago's huge convention hall Monday performed a chequered assignment creditably from every angle. No staunch Democrat could ask for more than Republicans could expect less.

Senator Barkley, possessor of a long record in congress, took full advantage of an opportunity that dozens of Democrats besides himself would have seized eagerly had they been the lucky ones. Never has there been a year more auspicious for the minority party's scathing criticism. Be it to the men who credit that he set nothing except him.

Americans are in trouble because they have followed prophets who were false blind and insensitive to their own limitations. was the text of his stirring oration. Wisely he avoided mention of specific actions that the Democratic party would have taken to prevent happening what already has happened. It is enough for the opposition to speak of the future wherein rest a thousand and one possibilities for improvement.

Senator Barkley promised that

Democrats will enact a scientific tariff and invigorate international trade by an International conference.

Democrats will relieve farmers' burdens by appointing a good secretary of agriculture, opening trade channels, discouraging governmental extravagance and encouraging cooperative marketing.

Democrats will grant unemployment relief from the federal government.

Democrats will advocate a shorter work day and a shorter work week.

Democrats will reduce expenses.

Democrats will revise federal reserve act and the personnel of the system.

Democrats will restrict stock market operations.

Democrats will improve supervision and control of banks.

Democrats will make an unequivocal statement on the 18th amendment.

This is an impressive list of promises. It is a credit to the Democratic party, and it should be considered gravely by the Republican party. Unfortunately it is subject to the severest curse that the public can lay on a political program—skepticism. In other years Republicans have made promises so pleasing to the people that popular favor has been won. inability to keep them after election has made the people skeptical of either party's power to accomplish any complete program for national salvation.

Of Republicans the Democratic keynoter thundered that they are prophets false blind and insensitive to their own limitations. For their weakness he demands no punishment voting disfavor in the coming election. He grants Republicans no qualities worthy of public favor. In addition he claims that Democratic prophets are true, blessed with superhuman vision and completely aware of their limitations.

Senator Dickinson's keynote speech for the Republican party was criticized severely because it was a repetition of the type of bombastic utterances that always has characterized such speeches. Senator Barkley speaking for the Democratic party has upheld the tradition of political prophets insensitive to their own limitations. His speech was more interesting because he had a better opportunity to show the opposition that at its best it was no more nor less than another sum of the same batch of political promises. The people are in no mood to be taken in easily this year. Political spin doctoring needs to be brought up to date.

Politicians Are People

The politician's fault as indicated by the time and substance of existing moments directed against him as well as by the pride he receives lies chiefly in his failure as a fairly representative member of the masses to be a象征 of the virtues. It seems fitting therefore that public attention should be called every now and then to the true significance of the unbridled criticism every politician is obliged to stand up against—not with the intention of curbing criticism for that would be fatal but rather with an idea of giving criticism of such nature a better excuse for being than the opportunity it offers to vent the public opinion.

The politician by which is meant any person is trusted with public responsibility by authority of a popular vote is truly a representative of his constituents. Though there has been a conspiracy of corruption to destroy the effectiveness of representative government the very existence of the corruption is a reflection of the efficiency upon which it feeds. Acknowledgement of helplessness to effect it is acknowledgement that the material of improvement does not exist. The politician who can command the authority carried in a majority vote is therefore a true representative of the people who elected him. Citizens who do not participate in public action at the polls are deadwood in a system of representative government.

It is a simple task to a cynic to say he has the talent and the courage to mix his cynicism with idealism for many do not even know the chance. For the most part, probably the game of politics consists of a struggle for reality against an her in such a way as to get the most favorable results with the least danger. Politicians are probably no better nor worse than the average type of a serve. The occurrence of exceptional types is no more frequent than it is in the perfect world of business.

Criticism of politicians and politics is therefore social self-criticism in itself or any considerable extension of the term would indicate one of two things appropriate or not. The criticism or lack of desire to move forward in the system of public opinion is a mark of a man's lack of interest in the system or public opinion is unfavorable to him unless he is the rare exception who is willing to die fighting for his principles he changes his course. The influence of minorities is increasing not so much because of its effect on politicians as because of the people's willingness to employ it. When they criticize a public official for yielding they actually are criticizing themselves for handing him in their will.

Government can reach a higher level than public morale will permit it to occupy. Public criticism or public offensives instead of being the sign of moral disintegration is the best sign Americans can produce to show that they are bent on accomplishing improvement in government. To a greater extent than any other national group perhaps they see their own weaknesses.

Reserved for the Courageous

Americans are liberal with enthusiasm for the notable who place the miniature world of sports too liberal. But like all people for whom excess stands in the same relation to happiness as a pleasant habit Americans with their free enthusiasm are a perfect background for extraordinary drama.

The greatest achievement in golf, Gene Sarazen's almost miraculous victory to win the United States open championship could not have been staged to better advantage anywhere else. It has been given all the extra room description reserved for use when an individual qualifies himself to sit on that pedestal in American imagination reserved for the courageous.

Sarazen by refusing to fold up when the odds were against him by playing miraculously good golf with a howling gallery at his heels by breaking records and bettering scores more than good enough to have won under ordinary conditions and by proving in many ways that behind his skill there is a stout competitive spirit has made himself the reigning national hero. Americans have a soft place in their hearts for contenders who are at their best when the going is hardest. No golfer ever made a better finish in a championship match than Sarazen did last Saturday. It is difficult to see how his achievement of making the last 27 holes in 98 strokes can be outliers. Certainly his display of courage never will be forgotten.

Americans are in trouble because they have followed prophets who were false blind and insensitive to their own limitations was the text of his stirring oration. Wisely he avoided mention of specific actions that the Democratic party would have taken to prevent happening what already has happened. It is enough for the opposition to speak of the future wherein rest a thousand and one possibilities for improvement.

Senator Barkley promised that

Democrats will enact a scientific tariff and invigorate international trade by an International conference.

Democrats will relieve farmers' burdens by appointing a good secretary of agriculture, opening trade channels, discouraging governmental extravagance and encouraging cooperative marketing.

Democrats will grant unemployment relief from the federal government.

Democrats will advocate a shorter work day and a shorter work week.

Democrats will reduce expenses.

Democrats will revise federal reserve act and the personnel of the system.

Democrats will restrict stock market operations.

Democrats will improve supervision and control of banks.

Democrats will make an unequivocal statement on the 18th amendment.

This is an impressive list of promises. It is a credit to the Democratic party, and it should be considered gravely by the Republican party. Unfortunately it is subject to the severest curse that the public can lay on a political program—skepticism.

In other years Republicans have made promises so pleasing to the people that popular favor has been won. inability to keep them after election has made the people skeptical of either party's power to accomplish any complete program for national salvation.

Of Republicans the Democratic keynoter thundered that they are prophets false blind and insensitive to their own limitations. For their weakness he demands no punishment voting disfavor in the coming election. He grants Republicans no qualities worthy of public favor. In addition he claims that Democratic prophets are true, blessed with superhuman vision and completely aware of their limitations.

Senator Dickinson's keynote speech for the Republican party was criticized severely because it was a repetition of the type of bombastic utterances that always has characterized such speeches. Senator Barkley speaking for the Democratic party has upheld the tradition of political prophets insensitive to their own limitations. His speech was more interesting because he had a better opportunity to show the opposition that at its best it was no more nor less than another sum of the same batch of political promises. The people are in no mood to be taken in easily this year. Political spin doctoring needs to be brought up to date.

Politicians Are People

The politician's fault as indicated by the time and substance of existing moments directed against him as well as by the pride he receives lies chiefly in his failure as a fairly representative member of the masses to be a象征 of the virtues. It seems fitting therefore that public attention should be called every now and then to the true significance of the unbridled criticism every politician is obliged to stand up against—not with the intention of curbing criticism for that would be fatal but rather with an idea of giving criticism of such nature a better excuse for being than the opportunity it offers to vent the public opinion.

The politician by which is meant any person is trusted with public responsibility by authority of a popular vote is truly a representative of his constituents. Though there has been a conspiracy of corruption to destroy the effectiveness of representative government the very existence of the corruption is a reflection of the efficiency upon which it feeds. Acknowledgement of helplessness to effect it is acknowledgement that the material of improvement does not exist. The politician who can command the authority carried in a majority vote is therefore a true representative of the people who elected him. Citizens who do not participate in pub-

Don't Let Baby Swallow That Pin.

Not long ago I visited an interesting exhibit composed of objects which children and adults had swallowed including pins, nails, coins, buttons, beads, toy bones, nuts and other things. All of them had been removed by the aid of a comparatively new instrument called the bronchoscope.

This is an electrically lighted instrument which enables the physician to look into the deep parts of the throat, the windpipe and the bronchi of the lungs. It was invented in 1937 but only within recent years has it been perfected as to minimize the dangers and discomforts of its use.

It has been estimated that previous to the use of the bronchoscope 40 per cent of the persons who had foreign bodies in the breathing apparatus died. Today it is due to carelessness in putting inedible objects in the mouth and carelessness of parents and nurses.

Children should not be permitted to place toys or other small objects in their mouths. Never allow a baby to play on the floor when there may be pins, buttons, nuts, marbles or other small objects which it can pick up and put in its mouth.

Preventive Care. Adults as well as children should be warned against the danger of holding things in their mouths while riding in moving automobile. In fact, holding things in the mouth is a habit which should not be encouraged at any time. Many a child will place a pin or other object in his mouth only because he has seen his mother do the same thing.

Children and busy eating is a frequent cause of trouble. If the food contains a foreign object such as a pin, bone or button it will be swallowed if the food is quickly eaten.

When a foreign object is swallowed and lodges in the throat do not become hysterical. Often the object can easily be grasped with the fingers. It is always best to call a physician. If it is in the throat the doctor may grasp it with a long pair of forceps. If it has been inhaled into the windpipe it will be necessary to use a bronchoscope. Your physician will advise you.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday June 29, 1922.

Railway shop men throughout the country were preparing to strike Saturday as a protest against wage cuts, and a national convention of the Federated Shop Crafts and other railway labor groups had been called to appeal before the U. S. railway labor board in Chicago on charges of conspiring to interfere with operation of the railroads in violation of the transportation act.

An official report from Washington stated that 40 Americans and a quarter of a million dollars worth of American property owned by General Gómez, Mexican bandit had been released.

Members of the Continental committee appealed to business men of the city to clean up all abuses in the business section before the centennial celebration, which was to officially open Sunday.

Miss Lincoln Cheesey of Marion and Dr. Herbert Jackson of New York City were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Cheesey on North State street. Dr. Joe Swanck pastor of Epworth U. P. church officiated.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Conklin at their home in Wadsworth.

Miss George Minard entertained a company of children at a lawn party at her home on South State street in honor of Mary Jane Schubel of Massillon and Howard McCollum of Chicago.

Twenty-five applications for membership were filed on Saturday morning at a meeting of the Marion Lodge of Elks and arrangements were made for the members to march in a body to the Union station Monday to act as escort for the grand marshal, Mayor W. M. Mountain of Toledo on his arrival here to take part in the Centennial program.

With the Inventors

For carrying dogs in automobiles mobile seats a Pennsylvania has invented a cover through which the animals can sleep.

For killing small game a gun has been invented that uses compressed air to fire small shells that are filled with shot or slug.

A telephone to be strapped to the ear instead of the hand is being tested by a New York man to enable him to talk in bed.

Two of taxon has increased so rapidly in recent years that it is estimated that about one-third of the 100 statements now worn by men and women in the United States are made of that material.

Experiments are being made to recover mucus from a hog spring near the California Nevada border to use in cosmetics. It is reported that the mucus has increased so rapidly in recent years that it is estimated that about one-third of the 100 statements now worn by men and women in the United States are made of that material.

Science Notes

Prior to Gabriel Fahrenheit's discovery of mercury thermometers it was not known how to detect changes in temperature.

Fahrenheit was blamed severely for the lighting of the Great Fire of London.

He was accused of being responsible for the fire because he had been instrumental in getting the city to ban the use of oil lamps.

two men got their throats cut last night. One of them is just the other side of that partition. If you are alive tomorrow you will probably need a burial service or two."

"And you—a government detective—stand for these outrages?" The minister blinked rapidly in his indignation and rolled his eyes toward the partition.

Just now Mrs. Stevens admitted Steve with "You are committing adultery like I am going to do."

"The ring on to his room?" The minister turned and followed the steward.

A set of too bad ventured the detective mildly, to make sport of the like fellow-like that I can make him go in to see if I can make him feel little easier in his mind. He's probably all upset."

Ashwood bowed sardonically.

"Peace be with you brother," he pronounced blandly, the drawn down gravity of his mouth belied by the scoffing twinkle in his eyes.

Stevens turned abruptly and left the room. Walking through the long hall of the guest wing he knocked at the door which he knew would be the minister's.

There was no answer so he entered without invitation. Dr. Titherington was seated on a bright-backed chair anxiously looking out of the window into the fast darkening twilight. His face was pale, his eyes large and round but he was in full control of his emotions.

"Well, Reverend, how goes it?" Stevens seated himself on the edge of the bed and studied the other for a moment before broaching his subject. See here, Reverend you may have forgotten who I am amongst all the introductions of a few minutes ago. I'm Stevens an operative of the United States Treasury department.

The little man looked at him dull.

"What are you doing in this den of thieves?" he inquired.

"Trying to get away and put the leader of the crooks in prison. There hasn't been a break I could take advantage of yet so I've had to bide my time. He stopped to marshall his thoughts. Then abruptly, "You came to marry Ashwood to Miss Wentworth didn't you?"

Dr. Titherington's long fingers wound and unwound the long black ribbon which hung from his nose glasses.

"No, he replied at length. But I am not sure that I shall conduct the ceremony now."

I know you won't."

The minister stared curiously at the detective. He was gradually emerging from the fog of depression which had engulfed him.

"What do you mean by that he demanded.

"Just that the cripple is going to abduct that girl against her will. In a moment of whole-hearted generosity he offered to marry her the way a seller tosses a bone to a dog. But whether you marry them or not he's going to take her away unless we can find some way to stop it."

"Perhaps then decided the other it would be better to marry them."

It would, if the whole affair couldn't be stopped. But it can. There is a fine young fellow here who got into this jam just to rescue her. He has offered to marry her before Limpo gets around to it, hoping that will stop him from carrying her off.

I shall have nothing to do with it. The whole thing is entirely too fantastic. The black ribbon was hopelessly snarled.

"Well, abdicated the old man quietly from where I sit a live layman if you'd have to give up your church would look better to me than a dead minister."

"Dead?" Dr. Titherington gasped audibly.

"Deader hell, begging your pardon. You don't meet guys like Ashwood at Wednesday afternoon guild meetings you know. He'd worry himself over killing you as much as he did over bumping off those two gorillas of One-shots. Maybe I am I take it he doesn't care much about ministers. I might mention in passing that
